Passing by Nehushtan, Part Ii B. K. Silverthorne

Has the Christian faith been thoroughly explained through the almost 19 centuries after the death of the apostles? Augustine? Aquinas? Calvin? Barth? Billy Graham? Catholicism? Protestantism? Primitivism? Universalism? Presuppositionalism? Evidentialism? Are we, and the voice of scripture itself, really to be thought at the mercy of human creativity and manipulation for its impact to be felt and minds supernaturally illuminated as God intended it? The answer: no! The Bible is about one thing: messianic prophecy and its fulfillment, and the imperative of our love, knowledge and faith of Jesus Christ through it. The implications of this simple truth are expounded here, to change our reading of scripture, and ourselves, forever, and in a way that the world could never have imagined.
