E: A Tale for Everybody Paul Harvey Jr.

E introduces us to Sara, a precocious and curious cicada faced with the anxious reality of so much to learn and do, and so little time to do it. (Cicadas emerge every seventeen years but live for only about forty days.) Determined to discover meaning in her brief life and to make the most of the time she has left, Sara becomes enamored of a human boy named Sam whom she has spied passing her ancestral tree and, much to her delight, Sam soon grows fond of her as well. But the situation complicates as friends and family of both learn of their mutual affection and seem to disapprove. E is more than the wonderful story of a bug and a boy. It can potentially be a teacher's and parent's tool in initiating a discussion about life aspirations and dealing with loss and the responsibilities of friendship. In the tradition of popular children's books such as IT'S OKAY TO BE DIFFERENT, WHOEVER YOU ARE, and DIFFERENT JUST LIKE ME, E: A TALE FOR EVERYBODY is a story that can be read to children to help them relate to, respect, and embrace those who are not just like them. Adults without children will enjoy this poignant tale on a different level. E should be on every parent's and grade school teacher's "must read" list. This is award-winning journalist and Radio Hall of Fame inductee, Paul Harvey, Jr.'s first children's book.
